HIEs: Conquer Data Collection
Challenges with Patient-
Generated Health Data

Challenge 1

Limited Patient Engagement

Traditional data collection methods can be passive, leaving patients feeling disengaged. JMH empowers patients to actively participate in their health journey by providing user-friendly tools for capturing PGHD. This leads to more complete and accurate data within the HIE.

Challenge 2

Inconsistent Data Formats

Inconsistent data formats across different healthcare providers can hinder seamless integration within an HIE. JMH offers standardized data collection tools and utilizes common data formats to ensure smooth integration with your existing HIE infrastructure.

Challenge 3

Missing Contextual Information

EHR data often lacks the context that PGHD can provide. JMH allows patients to add details and explanations to their data points, giving healthcare providers a clearer picture of their health status.

Your Solution for Richer HIE Data

By integrating JMH with your HIE, you gain access to a wealth of PGHD that can:

- Enhance data quality: JMH provides a reliable source of PGHD, enriching patient profiles within the HIE and enabling more comprehensive care coordination.
- Improve population health management: JMH data can be used to identify trends, track health outcomes, and support informed decision-making for preventative care initiatives.
- Increase value proposition for HIE membership: By offering access to valuable PGHD, JMH strengthens the HIE's value proposition, encouraging more healthcare providers to participate.
